REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

To the Honorable State Personnel Board of Review:

This matter came on for consideration upon Appellant's March 3, 2008, filing of an appeal from her change or "correction" of status from the classified to the unclassified service. After reviewing Appellant's appeal from her change or "correction" of status, it appears that Appellant, in essence, requests this Board to issue a declaratory judgment stating that Appellant is in the classified service rather than in the unclassified service.

It is true that when an Appellant seeks to invoke the jurisdiction of this Board, it is often necessary to determine initially whether an Appellant's position falls within the classified or alternatively the unclassified service. Yet, such a determination must be precipitated by an adverse personnel action, such as a removal or reduction, which either accompanied or followed an Appellant's change or "correction" of status. Indeed, under R.C. 124.03, the State Personnel Board of Review does not have the authority to issue declaratory judgments that would essentially prospectively determine the classified or unclassified status of an employee's position. There is no other statute in R.C. Chapter 124, which invests such jurisdiction in the State Personnel Board of Review.

Designating a position as classified or unclassified is in itself a lawful action on the part of an appointing authority. See, in general, Lawrence v. Edwin Shaw Hospital (1986), 34 Ohio App. 3d 137; Shearer v. Cuyahoga Cty. Hospital, Sunny Acres (1986), 34 Ohio App. 3d 59 (citing State, ex rel. Store v. Raschig (1943), 141 Ohio St. 477). See, also, Spindler v. Medina Cty. Board of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities (July 19, 1991, State Personnel Board of Review 91-INV-03-0164, Silver, ALJ, affm'd Full Board, August 26, 1992. While that appointing authority may or may not be mistaken in that designation, it is an issue that can only be determined whenever the jurisdiction of the State Personnel Board of Review is invoked in regard to another issue, as noted above.

It appears that Appellant has already received actual notice of a change or "correction" in status. Thus, should Appellant thereafter be adversely affected by a personnel action, Appellant may file another appeal with the State Personnel Board of Review. The Board, at that time, will determine whether it possesses jurisdiction over the subject matter of that appeal.

Therefore, I respectfully RECOMMEND that the State Personnel Board of Review DISMISS this appeal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, pursuant to R.C. 124.03.
